Course Description:

History of Music: Ancient to Classical (LBCL 390/2) is a survey of the major trends in western art music from the Middle Ages to the 1820s. While emphasis is on the mainstream of the western tradition, attention is also given to the music of diverse cultures. The course materials are designed to augment sensual musical experience with knowledge of the principal genres, forms, and technical features of western art music from the period. The major goals of the course are to promote the recognition of musical genres and to develop an understanding of the stylistic differences between the music of various historical periods. Some knowledge of music theory is valuable but not essential for this course.

Required Course Materials:

Required texts will be available at the university bookstore or may be purchased through various online sellers. The e-version of the book contains both the text and music that is covered in the book.

- Joseph and Vivian Kerman, Gary Tomlinson, Listen, 10th edition (New York: W. W. Norton & Company, 2023). ISBN: 978-1-324-03944-0

NOTE: A paperback copy of the 10th edition will be placed on 2-hour reserve. Due to the similarity in content, both the 9th and 8th ed. text and an accompanying CD set can be purchased instead. However, you will not be able to download all music files that are associated with the 10th edition. Any additional readings related to the Global Perspectives will be posted on MOODLE.

Suggested Additional Reading/Reference Works and Resources:

- 1) Piero Weiss and Richard Taruskin, editors. Music in the Western World: A History in Documents, 2nd edition. ISBN-10: 053458599X; ISBN-13: 9780534585990.
- 2) Craig Wright, Listening to Music, 8th edition, Cengage Learning/Schirmer, 2017. ISBN-10: 1305587073; ISBN-13: 9781305587076 (w/6 month Music Download Card).

3) The Grove Dictionary of Music (and New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians, ed. S. Sadie) are exhaustive works of reference. The New Grove Composer Biography Series includes, among many, studies of Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven, Brahms, Verdi, Wagner, Debussy, etc. Concordia Library has the Classical Music Library – an on-line streaming-audio music and reference database, covering the medieval period to the present. See the Database Finder at

The Marvin Duchow Music Library at McGill (Faculty of Music) contains a rich, comprehensive collection. Let me know, if you need to download any article or book chapter from McGill collection. The Grande Bibliotheque in Montreal also enables free access to a large classical music archive.

Course Requirements and Evaluation:

Course work consists of scheduled readings, critical listening exercises, and weekly lectures. Student progress will be evaluated with two short in-class quizzes, two short listening tests, two concert reports, and the final exam. The short quizzes will consist of multiple choice and definitions, and in the listening test students are required to recognise the musical examples covered in the class. The final exam includes multiple choice, listening questions, and essay questions. Study Guides containing lists of terms, names, and assigned listening pieces are provided on Moodle.

You must attend TWO (2) concerts of western classical music of your choice (not jazz, pop, rock, or ‘world music’). You may do this at any time during the term up to the due dates. Classical concerts take place at Concordia University <https://www.concordia.ca/finearts/music/events.html?searchTerm=>,

McGill University <https://www.mcgill.ca/music/events/concerts>,

Place-des-Arts <https://placedesarts.com/en/discipline/classical>, and in many other locations around the city. For one concert you must fill out a brief question sheet to demonstrate that you have been at the concert; for the other you must write a 3-page report (type-written, doubled-spaced, and with one inch margins). Deadlines for the concert reports are included in the course syllabus. Late concert reports will not be accepted without prior approval of the instructor. Without exception, only complete work submitted in class on the due date will receive full credit.

Students are strongly encouraged to attend all lectures, A pattern of non-attendance can result in a failing grade. Missing two consecutive classes without an official medical excuse will result in 75% reduction of the class participation grade (10% out of 15%). Assignments are due by the beginning of class. Assignments submitted late (i.e. after the scheduled class) will be penalized. Students urged to keep abreast of the scheduled readings, and recommended to make critical listening part of a daily routine. The student is responsible for obtaining class information and turning in assignments from missed class periods. Students are expected to arrive on time and may be marked absent if they do not. Students should also keep in mind that absences will affect their participation grade. The listening skills, musical terminology, and historical/cultural information are most effectively attained by integrating regular and disciplined study with active listening and not by rote memory. Be forewarned that musical memory and aural identification can be compromised under exam conditions and the listening component of the course should not be “crammed” the night before the exam/quiz date. Exams are merely a means of evaluation and the real end is the development of critical aural skills and a historically/ culturally informed knowledge base. There are no short cuts and daily listening/study is essential.

Evaluation:

Attendance and participation in class	15%
2 Quizzes (weeks 5 and 10)	20%
2 Listening /short-answer quizzes	10%
Final Exam (date TBA)	35%
Concert Report # 1 (attend a concert, fill out a sheet)	5%
Concert Report # 2 (3-page format paper)	15%
BONUS: TBA	5%

Details to be posted on the Moodle.

Learning Environment:

In-class listening will constitute a significant portion of the lectures which requires “active listening” without distractions. Smart phones and computer usage unrelated to classroom activity is not acceptable. Texting, recreational web surfing, answering email, chatting and similar activities are highly distracting to both your classmates and the instructor and disrupt the learning environment. Students engaging in such activities may be asked to leave the room. All students are encouraged to partake in class discussions but you are reminded that we must cultivate an atmosphere of respect and equality in which all may comfortably contribute.
