

1) Writings by Karl Polanyi, 1907-1978

The series consists of articles, draft articles, papers, prefaces, addresses, manuscripts, and draft manuscripts. The writings are in Hungarian, German and English. Part of the series contains articles and draft articles written in Hungary and Vienna (1886-1933), mainly published in the journals Szabadgondolat, and Huszadik Század, as well as in Bésci Magyar Ujság and Der Oesterreichische Volkswirt. Karl Polanyi's interest in the social sciences is documented in an earlier large hand-written unpublished manuscript in German. In the mid 1950's Karl Polanyi wrote an extensive draft manuscript that was never published on economic anthropology and the economic history of Greece. Karl Polanyi's and his wife Ilona involvement in the Hungarian Council in Great Britain is documented in a series of draft articles and correspondence. Part of Karl Polanyi's writings include drafts for The Great Transformation, "Christian Left Bulletins", "Europe To-Day", Trade and Market in the Early Empires: Economies in History and Theory, a draft manuscript of the Livelihood of Man, posthumously edited by H. W. Pearson, and a draft manuscript and notes, which posthumously became Dahomey and the Slave Trade. An Analysis of an Archaic Economy. (1957).
