HSBC LGBT Student Award 2015-2016

This award for LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Transsexual, Transgender) students was created in 2014 through the generosity of HSBC Bank Canada, in its effort to promote diversity in the corporate world across Canada. The award not only recognizes academic excellence, leadership skills and community service - it also proves that diversity is not a barrier, but a strength.

The HSBC LGBT Student Award is intended for first or second year Undergraduate students in the John Molson School of Business who are Canadian Citizens or Permanent Residents.

Valued at $5,000.00, the award will be granted following an adjudicated competition to a candidate who best meets the following criteria:

- Enrolled full-time in the Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Administration program in the John Molson School of Business,
- In first or second year of studies,
- Demonstrates high academic achievement at Concordia University,
- Demonstrates leadership, volunteerism and/or community service. Preference is given to students participating in LGBT organizations at the University or in the community at large however LGBT students involved in other community activities are very welcome to apply.

Students wishing to be considered for this award must provide a written statement (750 words) detailing their LGBT leadership and community service/volunteerism at Concordia University or in the community at large.

Eligible candidates will be considered and evaluated on the overall strength and quality of their submissions and supporting materials, as well as their academic performance in the John Molson School of Business.

The award recipient will be considered by HSBC as possible candidates for summer internships at HSBC Bank Canada and as candidates for management trainee programs at HSBC Bank Canada upon completion of their undergraduate degree.
