Details:

The residency supports the most promising graduate students in the visual arts to spend four weeks as an artist-in-residence in the Amalie Redlich Tower of the Museum der Moderne in Salzburg Austria.

Residency candidates must demonstrate exceptional ability in their body of creative work. They will be assessed on their record of achievements to date, relevant experience and creative work, and on the quality of the research-creation program they propose. Recognizing that many artists today work across disciplines, this fellowship is directed towards students whose body of work is focused on the visual arts. Performance-based art practices are not eligible for consideration unless they are undertaken within the context of contemporary visual arts practices and form a minority of the applicant's practice.

The award recipient must be a citizen or permanent resident of Canada as well as a full-time Concordia University graduate student.

Applications received will be reviewed by the Faculty Research Committee (FRC). The selected candidate must be able to take up the award in the year of the selection. Please see the timeline at the end of this document.

Award recipients must submit a report at the completion of the residency, outlining what they accomplished and describing the impact of the Residency on their research-creation practice.
