BCI Card

Go the Loans/Circulation desk at Webster library with your student ID card and request a BCI card.

You can go to other university libraries in the city, like McGill and University of Montreal, and borrow books from their collections, in person.
Two types of sources

Non-Academic/Primary Sources: such as news articles, government documents, NGO reports, government agency or international organization websites and publications or data sources (e.g., Freedom House/World Bank)

Academic (Peer reviewed) Publications: refer to peer-reviewed, scholarly articles and books published by university presses. For articles to be peer reviewed, the journal must use the double-blind peer-review process.
Non-Academic Sources
Country Profiles, Government, NGO & IGO reports

Non-peer reviewed

Energy & Environment

Americans have long been told that our country is running out of energy, but we now know that is wrong. America’s energy revolution has produced affordable, reliable energy for consumers along with stable, high-paying jobs for small businesses—all while dropping carbon emissions to their lowest level in 25 years. American energy policy must balance environmental protection with economic growth in order to encourage innovation, discovery, and prosperity.

October 2014

"That bright blue ball rising over the moon's surface, containing everything we hold dear – the laughter of children, a quiet sunrise, all the hopes and dreams of posterity – that's what's at stake. That's what we're fighting for. And if we remember that, I'm absolutely sure we'll succeed." - President Barack Obama, June 25, 2013

Searching for books

We’re searching directly in the Library Catalogue and we are using big, broad search terms, because book titles, subjects and tables of contents, tend to be less specific than journal article titles.

Peer review

This journal operates a double blind review process. All contributions will be initially assessed by the editor for suitability for the journal. Papers deemed suitable are then typically sent to a minimum of two independent expert reviewers to assess the scientific quality of the paper. The Editor is responsible for the final decision regarding acceptance or rejection of articles. The Editor’s decision is final. More information on types of peer review.
3. If the journal is Open Access, check the DOAJ

This symbol in Ulrich's means Open Access.

If a journal is Open Access, you can look it up in the Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ) to confirm the type of peer review.

When you look up the journal title in the DOAJ it will indicate the kind of peer review process.
