

THE ISRAELI PARTY SYSTEM IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE: A 'UNIQUE CASE' OR PART OF THE WEST EUROPEAN TRADITION?

with Dr. Csaba Nikolenyi, Co-Director, Azrieli Institute of Israel Studies

Thursday, March 29, 2012; 2:45 – 4:00 pm
H-629, Henry F. Hall Building
1455 de Maisonneuve St. West

This lecture is free and open to the public

Israel is often considered a unique case by social scientists. Contrary to this view, the presentation shows that the “genetic model” of the Israeli electoral and party system is distinctively West

European, which has important implications for the quality and stability of the country’s democracy.
