

Cristina Nogai (Co-op student, 2018) met with her scholarship provider Ms. Nichola J. Dyer

“Today I met the person who invested in my education in every way. I am so grateful for having a chance to meet the provider of my Co-op Economics Award, Ms. Nichola Dyer, a program manager at the World Bank’s Global Agriculture & Food Security program, and an Economics Co-op student at Concordia in the mid-1980’s. The Nichola Dyer Co-op Award represents an amazing input for my education and future career. I was honored to meet Ms. Dyer. She inspired me to look further for bright opportunities in life. Her work-life experience has proven once again how important is to get educated and to network as much as possible.

I would like to thank the Co-op Institute and the Economics Department for inviting this wonderful person to visit Concordia, and for giving me a chance to personally thank Ms. Dyer for granting me her award.

We took a picture together, which I attached. “

February 16th, 2018

