Art Hives: Public Practice Arts for Sustainable Cities

Rachel Chainey and Janis Timm-Bottos

Public Practice Arts in Health cares about the long-term well-being of individuals, communities and environments, and uses arts-based methodologies to create spaces of imagination, engagement, community building and solidarity. Come play and experiment with our creative reuse materials at the Pop-Up Art Hive, prototype the sustainable city of your dreams at the sandtable, and share your ideas with others as you engage with the creative process together.
