Long Table : The Role of Art in Shaping Environmental and Social Sustainability

Shauna Janssen and Alex Tigchelaar

The Long Table was conceived by performance artist Lois Weaver as a public address system for situating important conversations in a public and performative setting on topical subjects and issues. The long table format eschews hierarchical notions of expertise and makes space for equal representation of voices to be heard. Attendees are invited to participate in a productive in person and collective discussion on the potential and critical role that art/ists play in shaping environmental and socially sustainability practices
