

Epitaxial semiconductor nanowires are not only appealing to miniaturized devices, but also scalable photonic platforms. In this talk, I will describe epitaxial nanowire-based surface emitting lasers and wavelength distinguishable photodetectors in the ultraviolet, which can be potentially applied to portable sensing and imaging systems, for extended environment awareness.