foreword from the principal

As I am completing my 6th year and second term as Principal of the Simone de Beauvoir Institute (SdBI), I am proud to report that the SdBI has maintained its distinguished record in teaching, research grants and publications, as well as in service to the wider community. I am extremely grateful to all the part-time and full-time professors, Fellows, Research Associates, and members of the Women's Studies Student Association, who have shared their perspective and experience as members of our committees or participants in our events. Their wonderful contributions keep our Institute vibrant. I also owe gratitude to Linda Bowes, our Program Secretary, and our Events Coordinator and Information Officer, Michelle Lacombe: their tireless efforts have made my work so much easier and their help has rendered possible the present report.

Our Institute space has not changed and is still inadequate—efforts must be pursued to finally obtain what is needed. Otherwise, though, the face of the SdBI is constantly changing. Our full-time faculty have managed our Personnel Committee and Tenure Committee, and we have had much help from new and returning Part-Time Professors, Fellows and Research Associates to insure the continuation of the steady work of our standing committees (Coordinating, Curriculum, Graduate, Ethics, Forum, Lillian Robinson Scholars Program).

A number of major events stand out in the last two years: our victory at the Supreme Court of Canada (thanks to Viviane Namaste who presented a brief on our behalf); our accepted brief on (and feminist response to) Québec's Charter of Values; our follow-up to the Idle No More commitment with two events organized in collaboration with Indigenous women (the Indigenous Women and Two-Spirit Harm Reduction Coalition event and the event entitled "25 ans après Polytechnique: contrer l'effacement, créer sa place"); our partnership with Groupe Intervention Vidéo (GIV); the wonderful Lillian Robinson Scholars' lectures; the international conference on "Imagining the Future of LGBTQ Human Rights"; the successful launch of two issues of our students' journal, Subversions (Spring 2014 and Spring 2015); and our students' strike (Spring of 2015) in solidarity against the government's austerity measures.

In the last two years, at the UNDERGRADUATE LEVEL, our programs have continued to attract an increasing number of applicants. This means that our student body has in fact increased by about 5% every single year in the last 6 years! Full-time and part-time professors have teamed-up to offer demanding and cutting-edge courses. September 2013 marked the continuation of our four refreshed and strengthened programs. The Curriculum Committee has also advanced its work for our proposal for a new Major in Interdisciplinary Studies in Sexuality, which has been unanimously approved at Concordia Senate and which is currently being evaluated by the Ministry of Education.

At the GRADUATE LEVEL, our faculty members continue to welcome graduate students in the INDI programs (M.A. and Ph.D.) and the Ph.D. in Humanities. In addition, the Graduate Committee has pursued its work on a proposal for a Master's degree in Critical Studies of Activism that would allow students to further feminist scholarship in two areas: (a) bodies, genders and sexuality; and (b) race, nationalisms, and states. Discussions on this proposal will continue in the Fall of 2015.

In the last two years, at the POSTDOCTORAL LEVEL, the Institute has welcomed a good number of Postdoctoral Fellows. Dr. Naïma Hamrouni has worked under the supervision of Dr. Chantal Maillé on ethical limits to the commodification of women's educational, reproductive, care and domestic services. Drs. Isabelle Perreault (institutionalization of sexology at UQAM), Gabriel Girard, (network of actors and medicalization of risks among gays living with HIV), and Elhadji Mbaye (intersectoral political action, immigration policy, and anti-AIDS politics in France and Canada) have worked under the supervision of Dr. Viviane Namaste.

In terms of RESEARCH, all full-time professors have continued to be very active. A fuller account of their research outputs can be found later in the Report, but it is worth highlighting here that their most recent publications and presentations constitute only a fraction of their work as researchers and that their writing efforts of the last two years should soon be rewarded by the fresh smell of their publications! Full-time professors continued their stellar record of obtaining important research grants with research councils and Dr. Chantal Maillé made us proud, getting her promotion to Full Professor. As you can also see in the present document, our Fellows, Part-Time Professors, Research Associates, and Postdoctoral Fellows greatly contributed to the advancement of feminist knowledge and praxis via their multiple successes as award and grant recipients, and as authors of important and relevant publications and presentations.

With regards to COMMUNITY OUTREACH, all full-time professors were involved in the organization of significant conferences and events, and all devoted their time to community service and feminist praxis. Perhaps two Research Associates deserve particular attention here:

Kathleen O'Grady, writer and political and media strategist has seen her writings on health, sexuality, and women's and cultural issues appear in a variety of magazines and newspapers in North America, including: The Chicago Tribune, The Globe and Mail, The Toronto Star, The Women's Review of Books, BUST magazine and many others. For this, she received the prize of Opinion Writer of the Week Award in the Spring of 2015 and she also received the inaugural Concordia University Opinion Writer of the Year Award in June 2015.

Dr. Tracy Zhang, also a Research Associate and a post-doctoral fellow in the Department of Geography, Planning and Environment was funded by the Quebec Research Funds for Society and Culture (FRSCQ) to examine the international recruitment practices of the North American entertainment industries, using the Cirque du Soleil as a case. Tracy published a piece from that research ("Bending the body for China: the uses of acrobatics in Sino-US diplomacy during the Cold War," International Journal of Cultural Policy) and it brought her the FRSCQ's "young researcher" award for May 2015.

Space prevents me from presenting the extraordinary achievements of other SdBI members, but suffice to say that their contributions have been noticed and many have made us very proud at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute. We are extremely thankful that so many have chosen to devote their time and expertise to make the Institute a vibrant place and thus contributed to sustaining the excellent reputation of the SdBI in the community.

Our Forum Committee has been very active and, for the last two years, has managed to sponsor and/or organize seminars, colloquia, conferences, book launches, receptions, and a good number of other feminist activities; some of the highlights are presented later in this report. These activities are crucial to connect us with our academic community but also with the larger Montreal community of feminists, which has so much to offer in terms of thought, creation and action.

In brief, the flourishing state of the SdBI is underscored by the collective accomplishments of the various SdBI actors between 2013 and 2015 and, of course, only a tiny fraction of those can appear in the present report. I would like to take the opportunity to thank all members of the SdBI for such amazing work and to congratulate students and staff for two years of outstanding achievements. I warmly welcome the members who have recently joined us and wish those who are leaving us much success and happiness in the future.

I have had the privilege to be Principal for 6 years and am now on my way to a sabbatical. I will return to the Institute in June 2016 as a regular professor and will then have some time to consider my next steps. Wherever I end up, I will cherish many memories of the SdBI and all of its people. The SdBI is really special and I know that the next Principal will take it to the next level as the momentum is there for the SdBI to grow and prosper. In that regard, I reserve my special thanks to André Roy, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Benoit-Antoine Bacon, Provost, and Alan Shepard, President of Concordia, for all their words of encouragement, and for their support and belief in our SdBI.

word from the program secretary

We have many graduating students this coming June. Congratulations and well done to all of them! May what you have learned here help you in your travels throughout life.

Welcome to the new students coming in for September, a few of which I have already had the opportunity to meet. It is always exciting to see the next generation of women set on changing the world. Good luck to you all.

Administratively, it has been a trying year. The new systems the university has implemented can be frustrating at times, but they are getting easier as time goes on. I think the upcoming year will bring about more changes and, hopefully, I will be up to meeting the challenges. Please feel free to drop in just to talk, to complain, to share. My door is always open, unless I have gone home. :)

new things at the institute

Over the last two years, the SdBI has benefited from a digital upgrade. To stay better connected with its community of students, scholars and feminist researchers, the SdBI created a Facebook page. In addition to being a space to promote our activities and news to our local community, this tool has provided a bridge with more distant feminists interested in our professional opportunities and community activities. More recently, and as part of a larger Concordia project to standardize departmental websites, the SdBI website was redesigned. In addition to having a more user-friendly interface, the new site also allows for more autonomy in regards to updates and therefore promises to be a more dynamic window into the SdBI!

Simone's Library and Research Corner

The Simone de Beauvoir Reading Room continues to play an integral role in the quality of student life. The Reading Room is now staffed by three documentalists: Laura Copeland, Kerry McElroy, and this year we welcomed Madde Halupa to the team. The Reading Room is open on Tuesday through Thursday from 1pm to 7pm. Students use the reading room as a meeting place, to work on projects with colleagues, enjoy silent study time, browse and borrow our books, or use one of four work stations, equipped with computers. Students can search our online data-base of books from the comfort of their home, or may ask one of the documentalists for assistance in finding resources. The documentalists are continually researching new titles to add to the collection in order to provide current and relevant material for our students.

institute events

word from the event coordinator

Over the past two years, the SdBI has undoubtedly reaffirmed its commitment towards supporting a range of academic, cultural and community-based feminist activities. Since May of 2013, we have supported over 30 events including, conferences, workshops, lectures, screenings and publication launches. Most of these have been organized in partnership with allied departments and working groups at Concordia, as well as with other Montreal-based universities and local feminist organizations. This collaborative working model is an excellent way for us to amplify the impacts of our activities, and to connect with new and diverse communities.

More specifically, the programming over the past two years was built around two larger-size projects that highlighted the important work of indigenous feminists (Waniskâtân, organized with the Indigenous Women and Two-Spirit Harm Reduction Coalition), as well as emerging feminist scholars and activists (25 ans après Polytechnique : Contrer l'effacement, créer sa place, organized with the FFQ and Université de Montréal). The programming was also peppered with a large number of book launches, further attesting to the high volume of vibrant research being accomplished by our constituents and friends. Lastly, in 2015, the SdBI partnered with Groupe Intervention Vidéo (G.I.V.) to update the Concordia Library's media collection to better reflect current feminisms with the purchase of six new video works. When viewed as a whole, our dynamic programming celebrated the advancement of intersectional feminisms and effectively reflected the active community of scholars, activists, cultural practitioners and students working at the SdBI!

In conclusion, I would like to highlight the diligent work done by the members of the Forum Committee. The quality of our programming is a direct result of their generosity, vision and critical thinking. I would also like to thank faculty, staff and students for their valuable support in organizing our events.

Lillian Robinson Scholars

A feminist scholar whose career spanned over 35 years, Dr. Lillian Robinson was Principal of the Simone de Beauvoir Institute from 2000 to 2006. She was widely recognized as one of the leading feminist theorists of the twentieth century, and her essays and books have inspired feminist scholarship around the world. Thanks to a generous donation from the Renée B. Fisher Foundation and the work and vision of the Foundation Board Member Dr. Shelly Fisher Fishkin from Stanford University, the Simone de Beauvoir Institute has created a visiting scholars program as a living memorial to Lillian Robinson.

The Lillian Robinson Scholar Program is designed to attract distinguished visiting scholars working on a range of feminist research topics to the Simone de Beauvoir Institute. The program supports stays of varying lengths for scholars with a PhD. The program provides a small stipend of $1000. Four Lillian Robinson Scholars visited our Institute in the last two years.

Dr. Maya Eichler

“During my time as Lillian Robinson Scholar I worked on my edited volume Gender and Private Security in Global Politics which was recently published by Oxford University Press. Since July 2014, I have taken up the position of Canada Research Chair in Social Innovation and Community Engagement and Assistant Professor in Political and Canadian Studies and Women’s Studies at Mount Saint Vincent University (Halifax).”

- Maya Eichler

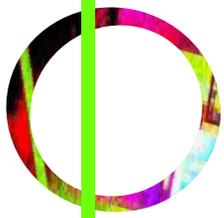

2014-2015

Dr. Angela Cameron

“My time at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute was productive and interesting. I enjoyed meeting the professors and students who work at the Institute, and delivering a talk to an interested and engaged audience. I also used my time there to write intensively, a quiet haven from family and professional responsibilities in Ottawa. The location in Montreal also allowed me to network with scholars doing similar research at McGill University, Université du Québec à Montréal, and Université de Montréal. I delivered a talk and a guest lecture at McGill University.”

- Angela Cameron

Public Positions

From time to time, the SdBI gets directly involved in debates and takes a public position. This practice has allowed us to distinguish ourselves as respected experts in number of feminist fields and, as such, in the past two years, we have been solicited to provide a feminist perspective on important debates. In 2013, the SdBI was granted Intervener status the Supreme Court of Canada in a case related to prostitution and, in 2013, the SdBI deposited a feminist response to Bill 60, the Québec “Charter of Values.”

Please find on our next page summaries of these public responses and do not hesitate to contact us to show your support!

In 2013, the Simone de Beauvoir Institute was granted Intervenor status at the Supreme Court of Canada in a case related to prostitution (Bedford et al.). On June 13, 2013, the Court heard the SdBI's case, which was built on three main arguments that supported our position that laws should not place women, including sex workers, at increased risk of violence.

We are pleased to report that the Supreme Court unanimously decided to strike down Canada's prostitution laws, because they did not respect Charter rights, notably the right to the security of the person. The SdBI sees this decision to strike down the law, which increased violence against women, as an important feminist victory.

An abstract of the factum, as well as the full French version, can be found on our web site:

SdBI Supreme Court Case On Prostitution

In the fall of 2013, the then governing party of Québec introduced Bill 60, a divisive bill more commonly referred to as Québec's "Charter of Values." In December of the same year, the Simone de Beauvoir Institute deposited a feminist response to the proposed Bill. The brief opposes Bill 60 and draws attention to what was perceived by our community of educators, researchers, and students as an exclusionary piece of policy. The important brief also highlights the false assumptions supported by the proposed bill and the negative impact it was likely to have on the lives of women living in Quebec.
