1. Logo use by University Departments

University departments requiring and/or producing printed public materials, must follow one of these options:

- Submit their requirements and specifications to University Communications Services (“UCS”) for the internal production of the material;
- Create their own material, which must be submitted to UCS for verification and approval; or
- Arrange for the production of the material by an external company. The company must be selected from a list of approved contractors provided by UCS. The material shall be verified and approved by UCS. A department that chooses this option is responsible for any related fees.

Please contact the UCS brand and studio manager (Veronique.Verthuy@concordia) to request the University’s official logo and any official photography.
2. Logo use by Clubs, Groups, Organizations or Associations

The decision to grant permission to a club, group, organization or association (hereinafter referred to individually and collectively as “Group”) for the use of the University’s name, name logo and/or insignia shall be assessed based on the following guidelines:

- The nature of the Group - a group should be of the sort that one would associate with a university community. For example, a not-for-profit group is generally preferable to a for-profit group;
- The membership of the Group – a Group in which membership is restricted to University students, faculty, staff or alumni is preferable. The membership should be large enough to warrant using the University’s name, logo and/or insignia and to ensure certain stability to the Group;
- The goals and objectives of the Group - the objectives and proposed activities of the Group should contribute to the educational, social or cultural values of the University;
- The organizational structure of the Group - the Charter, by-laws, procedures or rules of conduct of the Group should be presented. Such documents should enable all members joining the Group to be fully aware of their rights and responsibilities;
- The resources of the Group - the human, financial and material resources available to the Group should be demonstrably adequate for the Group to fulfill its mission and objectives;
- The history of the Group - a Group that has a proven track record for integrity and success is preferable;
- The internal and external support for the Group: A Group that has received support from other recognized internal and external groups in their application for permission is preferable;
- The quality of the application itself: a Group that submits a well-organized, well-documented and well-argued application is preferable.
3. Licensing Program

All applications for the use of the University’s name, logo and/or related insignia for commercial purposes shall be made, in the first instance, for conditional approval of the application, to the Licensing Coordinator of the University Bookstore.

Upon conditional approval of the application, the potential licensee shall submit designs incorporating the University’s name, logo and/or related insignia as well as product samples for initial approval by UCS and final approval by the Secretary-General.

Following approval by the Secretary-General, a non-exclusive, revocable licensing agreement shall be entered into with the licensee. The licensing agreement shall apply for a specific term and shall provide for a royalty fee to be paid to the University based on the wholesale price of the product. All royalty fees shall be credited to various scholarships and awards.

In the event of an application for the use of the University name, logo and/or related insignia in conjunction with fund-raising or charitable events, the Secretary-General may decide that royalty fees shall not be charged.

The University Bookstore, the Office of Advancement and Alumni Relations and the Department of Recreation and Athletics are excluded from the mandatory licensing program.
4. Websites

Websites not housed on Concordia.ca

Websites from the following units are not housed on Concordia.ca:
- University-affiliated daycare centres
- Student groups, associations, and clubs
- Unions and other similar associations

Requests to be exempt from use of the WCMS and/or Concordia.ca domain name

Websites from the following units can apply to be exempt from the WCMS and be housed on a non-Concordia server and not have a Concordia.ca domain name:
- A research centre consortium that involves external partners
- Research labs
- Research projects and groups
- Research centres/units for which the visual component of the site is considered integral to the research/creation itself

To apply for an exemption, a unit must submit a written request to UCS Web Communications (webcomms@concordia.ca). Should the request be accepted, the unit may then request to have the Concordia name and logo appear on their websites by emailing webcomms@concordia.ca.

Websites housed on University-affiliated secondary servers prior to January 1, 2015, will continue to be accommodated to the extent that it is possible to do so within the parameters established by IITS for the use, security and maintenance of secondary servers.

A unit that forms a part of the above list of exceptions planning to launch a website after January 1, 2015, and have it housed on Concordia.ca, will have to work within the parameters established by IITS for the use, security and maintenance of secondary servers.

Request submission process: To begin the process of either moving a website from Concordia.ca or migrating a website to the WCMS, the following information must be provided in writing to UCS Web Communications (webcomms@concordia.ca):
A justification from the Dean or VP, Research and Graduate Studies or AVP Research shall be used to evaluate the merit of the project. This justification should also answer the following questions:

- On which server is the website hosted?
- Who is responsible for managing the website?
- Which academic department is affiliated with the research group and/or lab?
- Who is the website’s target audience? (e.g., current students, prospective students, current faculty, prospective faculty).
- Is the website running on a third-party application?

Evaluation: UCS Web Communications will review the written request and contact the unit in question to discuss how to best move the site from the Concordia.ca domain to an alternative domain name.

Timeline: A prospective timeline for migrating a unit’s website will be established pursuant to discussions with UCS.

Requests to house websites outside of the WCMS and/or Concordia.ca domain name

Notwithstanding the abovementioned exceptions, academic and administrative units may request to house websites outside of the WCMS—either using the Concordia.ca domain name or an alternative domain name.

Request submission process: A unit may provide its written request to have its website housed outside of WCMS, to UCS Web Communications (webcomms@concordia.ca). This request must include the following information:

- On which server will the website be hosted?
- Who is responsible for managing the website?
- Which academic department is affiliated with the research group, centre, unit and/or lab?
- Who is the website’s target audience? (e.g., current students, prospective students, current faculty, prospective faculty).
- Is the website running on a third-party application? AND
- Why does the website need to use a Concordia.ca domain name? OR
- Why does the website have to be housed outside the Concordia.ca domain?
Evaluation: UCS Web Communications will review the written request and contact the unit in question.

Timeline: A prospective timeline for creating or migrating a unit’s website will be established pursuant to discussions with UCS.

Requests for alternate web domain names

Concordia.ca websites that run on the WCMS will adopt suffix domain names (e.g., Concordia.ca/artsci). However, there are exceptions that may retain their prefix domain names.

Request submission process: If your unit’s website or application is not part of the WCMS and would like to request a Concordia.ca domain name, as well as shortcut domain names and/or romance URLs, please email webcomms@concordia.ca and explain the purpose for which you require a domain name, shortcut domain name and/or romance URL.

Evaluation: UCS Web Communications will review the written request and contact the unit in question.

Timeline: A prospective timeline for creating or migrating a unit’s website will be established pursuant to discussions with UCS.

Requests for major changes to Concordia.ca and Cspace

There may be requests for major changes to the Concordia.ca public website and the intranet (Cspace), such as the revamping of the information architecture (navigation), visual redesigns, as well as the development of new features and functionality.

Request submission process: A unit may provide its written request for major changes to the Concordia.ca website and to Cspace, to UCS Web Communications (webcomms@concordia.ca). This request must include the following information:

- Is the change for Concordia.ca, Cspace or both?
- Does the change involve information architecture, visual redesigns and or the development of new features and functionality?
- Describe the requested changes in detail.
• Who is the website’s target audience? (e.g., current students, prospective students, current faculty, prospective faculty).
• Why are you requesting this change?
• Do you have analytics to accompany your request?

Evaluation: UCS Web Communications will review the written request and contact the unit in question.

Timeline: If the request is accepted, a prospective timeline will be established pursuant to discussions with UCS.
5. Requests for Mobile Applications

Mobile applications (“app”) must be developed and managed by IITS. Any units who would like to collaborate with IITS on mobile app projects must provide the information set forth below.

Request submission process: A unit may provide its written request for the development and management of a mobile app to UCS Web Communications (webcomms@concordia.ca). This request must include the following information:

- Describe the purpose of the app.
- Who is the app’s target audience? (e.g., current students, prospective students, current faculty, prospective faculty).

Evaluation: If representatives from UCS and IITS decide to move forward with the request, they will request that a project plan be created and then presented.

Timeline: If the request is accepted, a prospective timeline will be established pursuant to discussions with IITS.
6. Institutional Social Media Accounts

Creating an institutional social media account

Creating an account without in-depth knowledge of social media best practices or Concordia’s current list of accounts is not advisable, especially because content may be able to be promoted on existing accounts that already boast a large follower base. For example:

- Concordia Facebook: 48,500+ fans
- Concordia Twitter: 25,900+ followers
- Concordia LinkedIn Company page: 14,300+ followers
- Concordia LinkedIn University page: 120,000+ followers
- Concordia Google+: 1,255 have us in their circles
- Concordia YouTube: 992,000+ views/2,000+ channel subscribers
- Concordia Flickr: 365,000+ views
- Concordia Pinterest: 695+ followers
- Concordia Instagram: 3,500+ followers

Managing a social media account is labour intensive and requires a plan that includes answers to the following questions:

Goals/editorial purpose

- What are the goals of the proposed website/service?
- How would this presence work with other communication channels used by the University (website, other social media websites/services)?
- Does the editorial content appeal to the targeted demographic?
- Does a similar site/service already exist? If so, would working together with the already existing presence make better sense for both the university and the targeted audience?

Level of engagement

- What time commitment is required to run the proposed account?
- Are the required resources available?

- How will the community be engaged and what are the implications of its participation?
- How often will content need to be produced to keep the website refreshed and relevant?
- How can the Concordia brand be protected? Is additional moderation necessary?
- For how long will the proposed presence exist?

Strategic considerations

- How will success be measured in qualitative and quantitative terms?
- What is the proposed exit strategy?
- Is the overall investment time and cost worth the benefit the website will deliver?

Request submission process: A unit may contact the Communications Advisor responsible for that unit who will work with it and the UCS social media team to help the unit:

- Map out its needs
- Set up its account
- Ensure that the unit is following University branding guidelines and policies
- Provide overall guidelines and help with social media standards, including tagging, replying, the use of hashtags, link shorteners, etc.
- Dispense advice on how to use and promote tagged URLs with interested parties
- Make suggestions as to how to promote the unit’s event in conjunction with the social media team via the weekly social media line-up
- Offer suggestions on how to engage with a unit’s audiences on social media and how to respond to negative comments.

Units which do not have a Communications Advisor are invited to contact socialmedia@concordia.ca.

Social media campaigns

A unit interested in running a social media campaign should contact the UCS social media team (socialmedia@concordia.ca) for assistance at least two weeks before the start of the campaign to allow enough time to plan out the campaign itself, related milestones, define custom hashtags, set up the tagged links and ensure they are integrated with Google Analytics.

Requests to create and manage a Concordia social media account on behalf of an official academic or administrative unit

Evaluation: If an academic or administrative unit wishes to create and manage a Concordia social media account, that unit should contact its Communications Advisor or the UCS Social Media team, which will review the written request and contact the unit in question to discuss optimal solutions.

Timeline: A prospective timeline will be established pursuant to discussions with the unit’s Communications Advisor or the social media team.
7. Institutional Mobile Applications

Requests to develop a mobile application

Request process: Individuals who would like to submit a request to develop a mobile app should develop a proposal that contains the following information and email it to (webcomms@concordia.ca):

- What is the motivation behind the app?
- Who is the target audience?
- Project summary
- Project stakeholders
- Technical/user requirements
- Future maintenance (effort and costs)

Evaluation: Representatives from both UCS and IITS meet monthly to evaluate and approve such requests. Please note that, in order to develop a better understanding of the associated requirements and to be best poised to evaluate a request, UCS and IITS may request that a proposal and a presentation be delivered about the suggested mobile app.

Timeline: A prospective timeline will be established pursuant to discussions with UCS and IITS representatives.
