Academic Unit Head
Morden, Peter

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

1. Graduate degree in a relevant discipline.
2. Successful experience in practice-based, experiential teaching.
3. Current, relevant practitioner experience.
4. Specific academic training in lifespan, growth and development.

Additional Comments

This is a multi-section course. As such, instructors are required to pursue the same core competencies and learning outcomes and utilize equivalent evaluation schemes. Additionally, instructors must choose an approved textbook or selection of readings from a predetermined list. Instructors will be provided with a template for the course outline and are encouraged to contact the Chair with any questions.

A course outline must be submitted to and approved by the Chair by August 15.

Major revisions to the Undergraduate Human Relations programs have become effective in the 2018-2019 academic year. Program requirements have been revised and some course descriptions have also been revised. Applicants are encouraged to review these changes in the Undergraduate Academic Calendar (http://www.concordia.ca/academics/undergraduate/calendar.html)

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Morden, Peter

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

1. Graduate Degree in a relevant discipline.
2. Successful experience in practice-based, experiential teaching.
3. Current, relevant practitioner experience.
4. Specific academic training in interpersonal communication and relationships.
5. Professional training in small group facilitation and group dynamics, interpersonal communication, and experiential program leadership.

Additional Comments

This is a multi-section course. As such, instructors are required to pursue the same core competencies and learning outcomes and utilize equivalent evaluation schemes. Additionally, instructors must choose an approved textbook or selection of readings from a predetermined list. Instructors will be provided with a template for the course outline and are encouraged to contact the Chair with any questions.

A course outline must be submitted to and approved by the Chair by December 15.

Major revisions to the Undergraduate Human Relations programs have become effective in the 2018-2019 academic year. Program requirements have been revised and some course descriptions have also been revised. Applicants are encouraged to review these changes in the Undergraduate Academic Calendar (http://www.concordia.ca/academics/undergraduate/calendar.html)

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Additional Information
Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via YuJa) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants must have a PhD degree in biological sciences. Teaching or research experience in a biological science discipline related to the course at the university level is required. This lecture course provides an introduction to plant and animal form and function and provides an overview of basic physiological and morphological aspects of plants and animals that allow survival and reproduction. Topics include animal architecture, internal fluids, homeostasis, digestion and nutrition, nervous and chemical coordination.

Additional Comments

The Part Time instructor will team teach the course. They will teach the first half of the course, which will cover the topics of animal biology. Lectures for the first half of the course comprise 6 and a half weeks and conclude after Tuesday, Oct 20. The salary and seniority credits awarded will be half of those listed above. The instructor will coordinate the teaching of the other half of the course, the final exam, and final grading with a full-time faculty member.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants must have a PhD degree in biological sciences. Teaching or research experience in a biological science discipline related to the course at the university level is required. This course surveys the biology of vertebrates. Topics include the evolution of the major groups and a comparative analysis of the form (anatomy), function (physiology), and life history of vertebrates. Examples from the local fauna are emphasized.

The instructor will have 12 contact hours for laboratories. There are 2 laboratory sections which meet each week. The instructor will be present for the first hour of the laboratory sessions.

The instructor will supervise Teaching Assistants who will manage the instruction in the laboratory and assist in the teaching of the course. TAs each have 130 hours teaching responsibility during the course. The instructor will also work in close collaboration with a Biology Department Laboratory Technician assigned to the laboratory. The technician will set up material required for the laboratory and remove the material at the end of laboratories.

Additional Comments

In addition to lectures, there are 2 laboratory sections which meet once every two weeks. The instructor will have 12 contact hours for laboratories over the span of the semester. They will receive approximately $888 compensation for this as well as 1 seniority credit. Due to the response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the structure of the course and scheduling of the laboratories are subject to change.

Gagnon, Monika

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Master’s degree in Communication Studies or a cognate field is required

Appropriate teaching experience in the subject area within a Communication Studies environment, or that of a cognate Humanities department, as well as a professional or creative practice in intermedia production, are required.

The candidate must demonstrate evidence of expertise in the subject area. Evidence of expertise includes relevant teaching experience, a cover letter detailing qualifications and experience, a recent CV and a one-paragraph course description which may indicate readings, author, concepts or topics to be covered.

Additional Comments

This course provides a theoretical and applied introduction to intermedia art and media practices such as remediation, design, animation, interactivity, installation, and performance. General emphasis on creative process, and proof-of-concept media creations, rather than “finished” media productions.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)

Academic Unit Head

Gagnon, Monika

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Master’s degree in Communication Studies or a cognate field is required.

Appropriate teaching experience in the subject area within a Communication Studies environment, or that of a cognate Humanities department, as well as a professional or creative practice in intermedia production are required.

The candidate must demonstrate evidence of expertise in the subject area. Evidence of expertise includes relevant teaching experience, a cover letter detailing qualifications and experience, a recent CV and a one-paragraph course description which may indicate readings, author, concepts or topics to be covered.

Additional Comments

This course provides further theoretical and applied exploration of intermedia art and media practices such as remediation, design, animation, interactivity, installation, and performance. General emphasis on creative process, and proof-of-concept media creations, rather than “finished” media productions.

Academic Unit Head
Hansen, Jorgen

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

It is highly desirable that candidates have a PhD or advanced doctoral studies in the area of Economics taught. Successful university level teaching experience and expertise in those courses applied for, or in the area or subject of those courses, is also important. Candidates are advised to submit their curriculum vitae along with their application.

Additional Comments

This course is a coordinated course. The instructor must use the textbook(s) chosen for the course(s) by the Department and teach all of the topics covered on the common course outline. The instructor must also attend coordination meetings, use the same evaluation procedures (including exams and number of assignments as specified in the common course outline), use the Moodle website provided by the University to distribute course information, assignments, answers to assignments, etc. and abide by all of the regulations governing such courses. In addition to office hours, instructors should post an email address at which they can be reached by students and staff. Instructors should reply to such emails within 24 hours during weekdays and within 72 hours over weekends and holidays.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

This is a compulsory methods course for students in the MEES-mandated Early Childhood and Elementary Education program. From a multidisciplinary perspective, this course examines the following topics: the relationship between movement and self-knowledge, psychomotor development, and the role of physical activity in children’s education. The course addresses the teacher’s role in incorporating movement into the curriculum for all children, including those with special needs through the use of specific techniques and activities.

Degree and field: MA in Education, Child Studies, Developmental Psychology, or a closely related field (e.g. Kinesiology, Physical Education, Athletic Studies).

Required expertise: Professional expertise in physical and motor development during childhood, and demonstrated knowledge of MEES professional competencies for teachers and the Quebec Education Programs.

Certification: Teaching certification is an asset.

Assets: 2-5 years of prior experience teaching school-aged populations (grades K – 11) in classrooms or applied research contexts.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

This course provides an overview of the design and development of training in organizations by introducing students to theoretical and practical concepts. Topics explored include the organizational and personal benefits of training, different modes of delivery including e-learning (an instructional systems design approach to training development), the transfer of learned skills to the workplace environment, the evaluation of training, the management of the development process, and trends and successful practices in the field.

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through e-Concordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments.

Degree requirement: MA Educational Technology, MBA, MS Management, MA Adult Education (with emphasis on Training and Development).

Required expertise: Minimum of 2 years’ experience as a training and development professional in a workplace setting (corporation, government, non-profit).

Language requirements: Excellent written/spoken English skills.

Assets: PhD in the fields named above. One of the following certifications: Certified Training and Development Professional or Certified Training Practitioner from the Institute for Performance and Learning, Certified Performance and Learning Professional from the Association for Talent Development, Certified Human Resources Professional, or SHRM certification.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

Academic Unit Head
Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements
Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Conceptually: This is a practical, writing-intensive course that helps students learn to write some of the most common types of content used in instructional contexts: definitions, descriptions, procedures, reference entries, how-to articles, and feedback. The course takes a process-oriented approach to writing and emphasizes the importance of planning before writing.

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final, (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments.

The ideal instructor has Masters in English, English as Second Language, Communications or a related field with experience in teaching and has a suitable background for the content—composition (writing) studies, technical and professional communication, language for specific purposes, or similar.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:
• Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course.

Academic Unit Head

Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

This is a compulsory course for students in the MEES-mandated Early Childhood and Elementary Education program. In this course, students examine and learn to use a variety of observation methodologies to describe and interpret a child’s progress in the early childhood classroom. These observational formats include running records, anecdotal records, event samplings, time samplings, checklists and rating scales. The applicability of these techniques for assessment and decision-making purposes will be discussed and examined. The course requires students to complete an internship in which they spend 4 hours per week for 10 weeks (40 hours) in an early childhood/early elementary school setting (nursery, preschool, daycare, or pre-kindergarten) of their choice with children aged 3, 4, or 5.

Degree and field: MA in Education, Early Childhood Education, Child Studies or Child/Developmental Psychology.

Required expertise: Prior experience using a variety of observational techniques for assessment purposes at the preschool and/or elementary school levels, in depth knowledge of appropriate application of the various observation techniques.

Assets: Teacher or Early Childhood Educator Certification

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- Course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- Any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

The purpose of this course is to prepare learners to select, implement, and evaluate the emerging forms of digital technologies and social media to enhance the learning process across formal and informal educational settings.

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through e-Concordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments.

Degree and Field: M.A Educational Technology or Child Studies (or similar) or PhD student in one of these fields.

Required expertise: Experience implementing educational technology with faculty in a school or university setting.

Assets: Teacher certification preferred, not required; PhD with an emphasis in Educational Technology.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

Job Specific Requirements

_Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below._

This is the field experience course attached to EDUC 462 (seminar); the two courses are taken concurrently by students. EDUC 462 and 463 involve the placement and supervision of students in the B.A. Child Studies program whose area of specialization is in Exceptionality and Diversity in Childhood Settings. Specifically in EDUC 462, students develop competencies in differentiated instruction, interventions and remediation for children (pre-school and school-aged population) exhibiting developmental, cognitive, social-emotional, physical, and/or behavioural needs.

The instructor applicants must have a completed MA or PhD in the field of Child Studies, Inclusive Education or Educational Psychology.

The instructor applicants must have prior psychoeducational and/or clinical experience in early childhood and elementary school settings, and an in-depth knowledge of research, theory and policy as it is related to supporting children with special needs in special and inclusive settings.

The instructor will be responsible for helping students find placements for their field experience, therefore contacts in the field are essential.

The instructor will also be expected to make site visits, where and when necessary, as part of the supervision duty.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:
- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants to teach Credit ESL courses will: (1) hold a graduate degree in TESL, Applied Linguistics, or a closely related field; (2) show evidence of having had formal training in the teaching of English as a second language, including a supervised practicum in ESL; and (3) have had at least two years’ experience teaching English as a Second Language, including academic writing, in a university, university-associated, or CEGEP setting.

Credit ESL courses are coordinated, multi-section courses; to ensure quality control, all sections must adhere to standard core elements. In assuming a Credit ESL post, the successful applicant agrees to fulfill the following duties: (1) teach scheduled classes; (2) use the prescribed textbook(s); (3) collaborate with colleagues in the preparation and marking of common midterm and final exams; (4) invigilate midterm and final exams; and (5) attend all regularly scheduled term meetings. This course has two common midterm exams, typically held on Saturdays after weeks 5 and 10 of the semester; instructors will be informed of the exact dates, times, and locations of common midterm exams as soon as they are confirmed.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

• Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
• Updated CV

Academic Unit Head
Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants to teach Credit ESL courses will: (1) hold a graduate degree in TESL, Applied Linguistics, or a closely related field; (2) show evidence of having had formal training in the teaching of English as a second language, including a supervised practicum in ESL; and (3) have had at least two years’ experience teaching English as a Second Language, including academic writing, in a university, university-associated, or CEGEP setting.

Credit ESL courses are coordinated, multi-section courses; to ensure quality control, all sections must adhere to standard core elements. In assuming a Credit ESL post, the successful applicant agrees to fulfill the following duties: (1) teach scheduled classes; (2) use the prescribed textbook(s); (3) collaborate with colleagues in the preparation and marking of common midterm and final exams; (4) invigilate midterm and final exams; and (5) attend all regularly scheduled term meetings. This course has two common midterm exams, typically held on Saturdays after weeks 5 and 10 of the semester; instructors will be informed of the exact dates, times, and locations of common midterm exams as soon as they are confirmed.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Academic Unit Head

Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements

* Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants to teach Credit ESL courses will: (1) hold a graduate degree in TESL, Applied Linguistics, or a closely related field; (2) show evidence of having had formal training in the teaching of English as a second language, including a supervised practicum in ESL; and (3) have had at least two years’ experience teaching English as a Second Language, including academic writing, in a university, university-associated, or CEGEP setting.

Credit ESL courses are coordinated, multi-section courses; to ensure quality control, all sections must adhere to standard core elements. In assuming a Credit ESL post, the successful applicant agrees to fulfill the following duties: (1) teach scheduled classes; (2) use the prescribed textbook(s); (3) collaborate with colleagues in the preparation and marking of common midterm and final exams; (4) invigilate midterm and final exams; and (5) attend all regularly scheduled term meetings. This course has two common midterm exams, typically held on Saturdays after weeks 5 and 10 of the semester; instructors will be informed of the exact dates, times, and locations of common midterm exams as soon as they are confirmed.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Academic Unit Head
Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants to teach Credit ESL courses will: (1) hold a graduate degree in TESL, Applied Linguistics, or a closely related field; (2) show evidence of having had formal training in the teaching of English as a second language, including a supervised practicum in ESL; and (3) have had at least two years’ experience teaching English as a Second Language, including academic writing, in a university, university-associated, or CEGEP setting.

Credit ESL courses are coordinated, multi-section courses; to ensure quality control, all sections must adhere to standard core elements. In assuming a Credit ESL post, the successful applicant agrees to fulfill the following duties: (1) teach scheduled classes; (2) use the prescribed textbook(s); (3) collaborate with colleagues in the preparation and marking of common midterm and final exams; (4) invigilate midterm and final exams; and (5) attend all regularly scheduled term meetings. This course has two common midterm exams, typically held on Saturdays after weeks 5 and 10 of the semester; instructors will be informed of the exact dates, times, and locations of common midterm exams as soon as they are confirmed.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:
• Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
• Updated CV
• course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
• any other materials you feel are relevant.
These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

• Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
• Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
• If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
• Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
• Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
• Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
• Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Academic Unit Head

Kennedy, Sarita

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants to teach ESL 205 will: (1) hold a graduate degree in TESL, Applied Linguistics, or a closely related field; (2) show evidence of having had formal training in the teaching of English as a second language, including a supervised practicum in ESL; and (3) have had at least two years’ experience teaching English pronunciation to second language speakers of English in a university, university-associated, or CEGEP setting in courses with specified pronunciation performance objectives and evaluation criteria that reflect current theories of teaching pronunciation to ESL learners. Experience teaching pronunciation to Asian students is an asset.

Credit ESL courses are coordinated, multi-section courses; to ensure quality control, all sections must adhere to standard core elements. In assuming a Credit ESL post, the successful applicant agrees to fulfill the following duties: (1) teach scheduled classes; (2) use the prescribed textbook(s); (3) collaborate with colleagues in the preparation and marking of common exams; and (4) attend all regularly scheduled term meetings.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;
- any other materials you feel are relevant.

These can be uploaded (as a single PDF) at Step 5 of the application process.

Please note that part-time faculty members are responsible for ensuring that their Academic and Professional Services Dossier (Article 10.11) is kept up to date. Please create or update the dossier in FRIS.

The application deadline is June 15, 2020. No late applications will be accepted.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

This posting is for the lecture portion of the course only.

The purpose of TESL 326 is to introduce students to the profession of teaching English as a second language and the principles of TESL pedagogy.

In the Theory section, students examine a variety of approaches and methodologies that have been used in the past and how these have contributed to current thinking and practices. They have the opportunity to explore English-language instruction in a variety of settings through video analysis and discussions. They examine issues related to lesson planning, basic teaching techniques, and classroom organization. Special attention is paid to the creation of lessons appropriate to adult learners. The content explored in the theory section is applied in the Practicum section, where students observe, assist, and teach in adult ESL classes.

Degree requirement: Applicants must hold a M.A. degree or higher in Teaching English as a Second Language or related field with current knowledge and expertise in teaching ESL and some basic knowledge of the Professional Competencies of ESL teachers in Quebec.

Because this is a compulsory course associated with MELS-mandated Teacher Education programs, core content, assignments, and assessment procedures must adhere to overall B.Ed. in TESL program structure, as overseen by the B.Ed. in TESL Program Director.

If you have not previously taught this course successfully three times or more, the Part-time Hiring Committee (PTHC) would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:

- Cover Letter: explaining your qualifications, reasons for applying to teach this course, and approach to teaching the course
- Updated CV

Job Specific Requirements
Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

A record of literary publications in this genre is required and previous successful experience teaching university-level fiction workshops is highly desirable. One third or more of the course is devoted to the study of prose from a writer's point of view. This includes the examination and discussion of a course pack of selected works. Candidates who have not previously taught this course three times or more must submit a CV and a teaching statement indicating how you might approach the teaching of this class, including any texts, writing assignments or pedagogical strategies that might be applicable. Evidence of teaching effectiveness in the area is a critical criterion in appraising applications.

Additional Comments
Please note that this posting represents 50% of the course (3 seniority credits and $9,138 salary) to be taught from January to April 2021 only.

Additional Information
Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

A record of literary publications in this genre is required and previous successful experience teaching university-level fiction workshops is highly desirable. Candidates who have not previously taught this course three times or more must submit a syllabus, including course description, stated aims of the course, descriptions of assignments and evaluation criteria. The syllabus should indicate the grade breakdown and expectations for attendance, participation, submissions, revisions, exercises if any, and portfolio, as well as for workshop procedure.

Additional Comments

Please note that this posting represents 50% of the course (3 seniority credits and $9,138 salary) to be taught from January to April 2021 only.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

* This projected salary is being provided on a trial basis for information purposes only. It is subject to verification prior to the issuance of a contract.

Academic Unit Head

Liakin, Denis

Job Specific Requirements

* Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Les candidats qui n’ont pas donné ce cours avec succès au moins trois fois sont tenus de démontrer au Comité d’engagement des professeurs à temps partiel que leur formation et leur expérience correspondent aux qualifications énoncées ci-dessus.

Un diplôme de maîtrise en didactique de l’enseignement du français langue seconde ou l’équivalent et une expérience d’enseignement de niveau universitaire dans le domaine couvert par le cours. Connaissance de la nouvelle grammaire exigée. Le professeur doit respecter le plan de cours du département. Veuillez noter que le contenu ainsi que le manuel de ce cours ont changé dans le but de l’aligner avec le Cadre Européen Commun de Référence.

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchronisée (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)

Un diplôme de maîtrise en didactique de l’enseignement du français langue seconde ou l’équivalent et une expérience d’enseignement de niveau universitaire dans le domaine couvert par le cours.

Le professeur doit respecter le plan de cours du département. Connaissance de Moodle requise.

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchronne (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Le professeur doit respecter le plan de cours du département. Connaissance de Moodle requise.

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchronne (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchronise (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Liakin, Denis

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Les candidats qui n’ont pas donné ce cours avec succès au moins trois fois sont tenus de démontrer au Comité d’engagement des professeurs à temps partiel que leur formation et leur expérience correspondent aux qualifications énoncées ci-dessus.

Un diplôme de maîtrise en didactique de l’enseignement du français langue seconde ou l’équivalent et une expérience d’enseignement de niveau universitaire dans le domaine couvert par le cours.

Le professeur doit respecter le plan de cours du département. Connaissance de Moodle requise.

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchrone (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Les candidats qui n’ont pas donné ce cours avec succès au moins trois fois sont tenus de démontrer au Comité d’engagement des professeurs à temps partiel que leur formation et leur expérience correspondent aux qualifications énoncées ci-dessus.

Un diplôme de maîtrise en didactique de l’enseignement du français langue seconde ou l’équivalent et une expérience d’enseignement de niveau universitaire dans le domaine couvert par le cours.

Le professeur doit respecter le plan de cours du département. Connaissance de Moodle requise.

Additional Comments
Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

• Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
• Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
• Enregistrer toute séance synchrone (en direct).
• Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
• Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
• Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
• Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information
Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

• Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
• Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
• If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
• Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
• Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
• Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
• Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Academic Unit Head

Liakin, Denis

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Les candidats qui n’ont pas donné ce cours avec succès au moins trois fois sont tenus de démontrer au Comité d’engagement des professeurs à temps partiel que leur formation et leur expérience correspondent aux qualifications énoncées ci-dessus.

Un diplôme de maitrise en traduction/traductologie et une expérience d'enseignement de niveau universitaire dans le domaine couvert par le cours.

Additional Comments

Puisqu’il est possible que les cours ne soient pas offerts en présentiel ou que les interactions d’enseignement en personne soient limitées, les candidats sont tenus d’accepter de fournir le contenu du cours dans un format électronique en respectant les conditions suivantes :

- Avoir accès à Internet et à du matériel informatique (ordinateur, webcam, microphone et casque).
- Avoir la capacité de créer le cours Moodle et d’utiliser les fonctionnalités élémentaires (p. ex., mais sans s’y limiter, ajouter des fichiers, utiliser la fonction « Annonces » sur Moodle pour envoyer des messages importants à toute la classe, ajouter les travaux à compléter et faire parvenir les notes, les corrections et les commentaires aux étudiants).
- Enregistrer toute séance synchrone (en direct).
- Téléverser sur YuJa les conférences enregistrées et les rendre accessibles (en toute sécurité) sur Moodle.
- Rendre disponibles les transcriptions ou les légendes de l’ensemble des vidéos enregistrées (YuJa), ou s’efforcer de fournir du matériel aux étudiants de façon accessible.
- Maintenir un contact direct soutenu avec les étudiants, ce qui comprend des heures de bureau virtuelles.
- Communiquer clairement aux étudiants la meilleure façon de faire parvenir leurs questions et leurs messages.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Minimum qualifications for the teaching position are a Masters in an appropriate or related field, appropriate expertise for the course in question and teaching experience. Applicants must be Canadian Citizens or Landed Immigrants.

Additional Comments

Half of this course (3 credits; $9,138.00) is available to a part-time faculty member and is to be team taught with another part-time faculty member.

Please submit a complete application package which consists of a completed, signed application form, a letter to the Part-Time Hiring Committee outlining your qualifications to teach the course(s) to which you are applying, and an updated CV. Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching, would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught the course(s) to which they are applying before, or for those who have not taught in GPE before.

Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching, would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught the course(s) to which they are applying before, or for those who have not taught in GPE before.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

_Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below._

Minimum qualifications for the teaching position are a Masters in an appropriate or related field, appropriate expertise for the course in question and teaching experience. Applicants must be Canadian Citizens or Landed Immigrants.

Additional Comments

_Please submit a complete application package which consists of a completed, signed application form, a letter to the Part-Time Hiring Committee outlining your qualifications to teach the course(s) to which you are applying, and an updated CV. Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching, would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught the course(s) to which they are applying before, or for those who have not taught in GPE before._

Additional Information

_Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:_

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Minimum qualifications for the teaching position are a Masters in an appropriate or related field, appropriate expertise for the course in question and teaching experience. Applicants must be Canadian Citizens or Landed Immigrants.

Additional Comments

Please submit a complete application package which consists of a completed, signed application form, a letter to the Part-Time Hiring Committee outlining your qualifications to teach the course(s) to which you are applying, and an updated CV. Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching, would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught the course(s) to which they are applying before, or for those who have not taught in GPE before.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements
Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Minimum qualifications for the teaching position are a Masters (PhD preferred) in an appropriate or related field, appropriate expertise for the course in question and teaching experience. Applicants must be Canadian Citizens or Landed Immigrants.

Additional Comments
Please submit a complete application package which consists of a completed, signed application form, a letter to the Part-Time Hiring Committee outlining your qualifications to teach the course(s) to which you are applying, and an updated CV. Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching, would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught the course(s) to which they are applying before, or for those who have not taught in GPE before.

Additional Information
Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Minimum BSc in Exercise Science or related field. Documented evidence of teaching excellence at the University level, experience in teaching large classes at the University level and extensive knowledge on how common injuries and diseases impact on the anatomical structures and functional systems of the human body.

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through eConcordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Candidates must have at least five years of relevant professional journalism experience and, preferably, a graduate degree and a thorough understanding of journalism history. Teaching experience at the post-secondary level is an asset.

Applications must include the following documents: a cover letter detailing qualifications and experience, a recent CV, demonstration of knowledge in the subject area (e.g. recent publications, recent professional or educational activities, statement of teaching philosophy that shows how you would approach the course material).

Additional Comments

This course provides a survey of the foundational ideas about journalism and its role in society, from the time of an emergent press to the present. It addresses ideas about journalism's place in democratic society as well as current critical thought. The overall guiding question in this course is: What is journalism? While the course follows a rough chronological trajectory, special attention will be paid to parallels between developments in the past and changes occurring in news production and dissemination today.

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Candidates must have at least five years of relevant professional journalism experience and, preferably, a graduate degree and a thorough understanding of contemporary news media. Teaching experience at the post-secondary level is an asset.

Applicants must include the following documents: a cover letter detailing qualifications and experience, a recent CV, demonstration of knowledge in the subject area (e.g., recent publications, recent professional or educational activities, statement of teaching philosophy that shows how you would approach the course material).

Additional Comments

This course introduces students to the increasingly complex structures of modern media, and considers them in the context of journalism ideals. It examines the organizations, practices and problems of news media, focusing on key functions in day-to-day activities. In any given year, it may explore in detail a particular development or problem in the news media.

Key topics to address:

• The role that news media owners, journalists, governments, lobbyists, NGOs and the public may play in contemporary news media.
• How different media report on major stories (by analyzing daily newspaper coverage and TV and radio news).
• The changing roles of the reporter, editors and the audience in the online age.
• The technical, journalistic and ethical questions posed by contemporary news media.

Interested individuals (including Concordia University Part-Time Faculty Association (CUPFA) members) must apply by logging into the Faculty Resource Information System (FRIS) at: https://fris.concordia.ca. The online dossier and online application must be submitted no later than 11:59 p.m. on June 15, 2020.

As specified in Article 10.01 a) of the Concordia University Part-Time Faculty Association (CUPFA) collective agreement: only Canadian citizens and permanent residents may apply to posted courses. Non-Canadians shall only be eligible to receive Reserve Courses as per Article 10.24 of the CUPFA collective agreement, and therefore shall be classified as Adjuncts or Graduate Students.
Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Candidates must have at least five years of relevant professional journalism experience and, preferably, a graduate degree as well as a thorough understanding of lighting techniques for still and video photography. A news and feature photography portfolio is an asset. Teaching experience at the post-secondary level is an asset.

Applications must include the following documents: a cover letter detailing qualifications and experience, a recent CV, demonstration of knowledge in the subject area (e.g. recent publications, recent professional or educational activities, statement of teaching philosophy that shows how you would approach the course material).

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

* Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Applicants must hold a graduate degree in political science and have demonstrated expertise in global environmental politics. A high level of teaching skills will be considered favourably. Course evaluations from other departments or institutions, a CV, and a letter outlining the approach to teaching would be helpful to the PTHC in assessing the candidacy of applicants who have not taught LOYC 240 successfully three times or more. Preference will be given to those who have experience teaching online.

Additional Comments

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through e-Concordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments.

Job Specific Requirements

* Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Fall only (3 credits) Salary $9,138

Two to three years of teaching in a Great Books program at the university level is required. The successful candidate will be required to present historical lectures on a wide range of subjects and conduct seminars on primary texts of the philosophic, political, economic, and historical traditions. The course will be offered following a set syllabus that covers the 18th and 19th centuries. A PhD in modern European history, politics, philosophy (or a related field) is required, as is a record of peer-reviewed publications in any of the following, or related, subject areas: modern European political and intellectual history.

Additional Comments

You may address your application to Dr. Mark Russell, Principal of LAC. If you have not taught this course successfully three times or more, the PTHC would find it helpful in assessing your candidacy to receive:
- a cover letter explaining your qualifications, approach to teaching, and reasons for applying to teach this course;
- an up-to-date CV;
- course evaluations from other departments or institutions;

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Two to three years of teaching in a Great Books program at the university level is highly desirable. The successful candidate will be required to conduct seminars on a wide range of primary texts of the literary tradition. In the classroom, instructors are expected to help students develop the ability to read texts closely and carefully, and to contextualize these texts in their broader socio-historical and intellectual frameworks. This requires familiarity with a very broad range of literary and some philosophical texts, periods, and traditions. Teaching duties involve a great deal of individual writing coaching. The course will be offered following a set syllabus that covers the 18th to the early 20th century. A PhD in a literary discipline covering the period is required, as is a record of peer-reviewed publications in a relevant literary discipline.

Additional Comments

You may address your application to Dr. Mark Russell, Principal of LAC.

Academic Unit Head

Hyndman, Cody

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

BSc Honours, MA/MSc or PhD Degree in Mathematics or Statistics (a copy of the diploma may be asked if not on file). All new applicants must submit relevant documentation with their application, including proof of teaching effectiveness.

Additional Comments

This is a multi-section course, with one or more sections given over the summer. A course examiner is assigned to the course, with whom the instructor must collaborate and keep in close communication concerning: a) the delivery of the course and the assignments (through WeBWorK); b) the midterm test; and c) the marking of the test and final examination. The course offers a tutorial given by a TA, and the instructor is expected to communicate with the TA to ensure that the material covered corresponds to the lectures. This course typically has a common mid-term test on the week-end after week 6 or 7 of the course. The exact date and time will be mentioned on the course outline.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

BSc Honours, MA/MSc or PhD Degree in Mathematics or Statistics (a copy of the diploma may be asked if not on file). All new applicants must submit relevant documentation with their application, including proof of teaching effectiveness.

Additional Comments

This is a multi-section course, with one or more sections given over the summer. A course examiner is assigned to the course, with whom the instructor must collaborate and keep in close communication concerning: a) the delivery of the course and the assignments (through MyMathLab); b) the midterm test; and c) the marking of the test and final examination. This course typically has a common mid-term test on the week-end after week 6 or 7 of the course. The exact date and time will be mentioned on the course outline.

Additional Information

Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Job Specific Requirements
Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

BSc Honours, MA/MSc or PhD Degree in Mathematics or Statistics (a copy of the diploma may be asked if not on file). All new applicants must submit relevant documentation with their application, including proof of teaching effectiveness.

Additional Comments
This is a multi-section course, with one or more sections given over the summer. A course examiner is assigned to the course, with whom the instructor must collaborate and keep in close communication concerning: a) the delivery of the course and the assignments (through MyMathLab); b) the midterm test; and c) the marking of the test and final examination. This course typically has a common mid-term test on the week-end after week 6 or 7 of the course. The exact date and time will be mentioned on the course outline.

Additional Information
Given the possibility courses will not be offered in classrooms, in order to deliver the course content in an electronic format applicants are considered to agree to meet the following conditions:

- Access to internet and hardware equipment (computer, webcam, microphone and headset)
- Ability to launch your Moodle course and use some of the elementary features (e.g., but not limited to, add files, use the Moodle announcements feature to send important messages to the whole class, set up an assignment in Moodle to receive submissions and make grades/feedback available to students)
- If you do a synchronous lecture, it has to be recorded
- Upload recorded lectures to YuJa and make them available (securely) in Moodle – training will be made available before and during the summer terms
- Make transcripts available of all recorded videos – or, endeavor to provide material to students in an accessible fashion, including (but not limited to) providing transcripts of recorded lectures (via Yuja) and providing image descriptions for any posted images
- Ability to maintain regular live contact with students, including virtual office hours (via Zoom, Adobe Connect, or similar platform)
- Clearly communicate to students your preferred mode to receive questions and messages

Academic Unit Head
Champagne, Alexandre

Job Specific Requirements

Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

- Holding a PhD in Physics, having a track-record of demonstrated teaching effectiveness in online teaching, and having an up-to-date knowledge of modern physics developments.

Additional Comments

Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through e-Concordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments and exams.

Academic Unit Head
Champagne, Alexandre

Job Specific Requirements
Applicants who have not taught this course three times or more are required to demonstrate to the Part-Time Hiring Committee how their training and experience meet the qualifications as stated below.

Holding a PhD in Physics, having a track-record of demonstrated teaching effectiveness in online teaching, and having an up-to-date knowledge of Energy and Environment Science.

Additional Comments
Teaching responsibilities: This is an asynchronous, online course offered through e-Concordia. The course is already developed: the lessons are already recorded, and the assignments are already determined. The instructor is responsible for managing the course. This specifically involves (1) becoming familiar with the existing course, (2) scheduling three live, online sessions—one before the Drop date, one in the middle of the course, and one close to finals to help students prepare for the final (additional sessions are also welcomed), (3) monitoring and contributing to the discussion board, (4) coordinating grading with the teaching assistants, and (5) grading assignments and exams.
