A next-generation business school

Located in the vibrant heart of downtown Montreal, Concordia University's John Molson School of Business is one of Canada's leading business schools.

What's in a name?

The Goodman Institute of Investment Management was established at Concordia's John Molson School of Business through a generous donation by investment legend Ned Goodman. Since 2001, the Institute's flagship program continues to thrive with our students consistently outperforming their global CFA candidate peers on the CFA examinations, with pass rates that typically double the worldwide pass rates on the CFA Level I exam.

Welcome to Toronto!

Toronto is Canada's financial capital and an international centre for business, the arts and culture. The city is home to the Toronto Stock Exchange and is the headquarters for Canada's five largest banks, along with many noteworthy Canadian and multinational corporations.

EXPAND YOUR NETWORK in Canada's two largest cities

The MBA in Investment Management is offered jointly in Montreal and Toronto, two of the world's greatest cities. Over the course of the three-year program, our MBAs get to study at facilities in either location and pursue work and networking opportunities (including internship options) in Canada's two largest job markets.

Work towards two world-class designations over three years

Our curriculum and courses are regularly updated to reflect market changes so that students are continually exposed to current global trends in investment management. Core lecture materials are developed in tandem with the CFA program's Candidate Body of Knowledge™ and emphasize ethical and professional standards throughout the curriculum.

Gain valuable work experience while studying

Classes are held Wednesday evenings and all-day Saturday, giving you the flexibility to work full- or part-time, if you choose, and take advantage of our internship opportunities. You get the benefits of a full-time program with the flexibility of a part-time one.

Kick-start a career in the world of finance
