

Call for Applications: BMO MSc Scholarships 2022/23

The John Molson School of Business and the L. Jacques Ménard - BMO Centre for Capital Markets at Concordia University welcome applications for four (4) MSc scholarships valued at $6,000 each. The purpose of the scholarships is to facilitate research on capital markets and to provide support to graduate students interested in empirical and/or theoretical capital markets research.

Details

The BMO MSc scholarships are funded by the Jacques Ménard - BMO Centre for Capital Markets at the John Molson School of Business. Full-time MSc students who have completed their course work – or are expected to do so by the end of this fall term – may apply. The scholarships are open to Canadian citizens, permanent residents, and international students who are conducting or who will conduct targeted research in the area of finance, with a preference given to students focusing on capital markets research. The selection of the recipients will be based on academic excellence and the relevance of their research topics.

Value: $6,000 per award

Number of scholarships: Four

Duration: One year

Application process

To apply, please submit your application electronically to jmsb.gradawards@concordia.ca with the following required documents in one combined PDF file by 5pm on October 31, 2022:

- An unofficial transcript of your current program of studies;
- A CV, including a list of all relevant research experience;
- A research proposal (max. 600 words) outlining your general research interests and your specific research plans (indicate a title – even if provisional) in the field of capital markets;

Note: Use the subject line “BMO Centre MSc scholarship application 2022-2023” when submitting your application and name your PDF file as follows: “[YOUR LASTNAME] - BMO Centre MSc scholarship application 2022”. Incomplete or late applications will not be considered.

The L. Jacques Ménard - BMO Centre for Capital Markets

The L. Jacques Ménard - BMO Centre for Capital Markets was founded in 2021 and is housed at Concordia University’s John Molson School of Business. The Centre endeavours to provide the next generation of capital market professionals with an education grounded in theory and practice, and advance scholarly research and practical approaches that respond to current challenges faced by the banking industry. The Centre is dedicated to knowledge creation and applied practice while providing an environment for students and faculty to cultivate ties with the capital markets community.
