Search Tips

Wildcard: Words may be right-hand truncated using an asterisk (*) in place of other characters. The 1st wildcard may also be embedded in a search string. You may use * to replace a single character anywhere within a word.

Examples: environment, policy*, wom*

Boolean: Use "and" or "or" to specify multiple words in any field, any order. Use "and not" to exclude words.

Example: stocks and bonds

Field: A field limit causes the system to search only the specified field for the specified word(s).

Grouping: Keyword search results are usually grouped by relevance to bring the most likely titles to the top of the list. Each group

Finding Articles

• Articles are found through databases and the Discovery Search portal. In the catalogue, you can search for journals and databases, not articles.

• To access databases: go to the research guide, on the catalogue or to the Databases page.

• Use limiters (facets) to identify scholarly (peer-reviewed) articles.
Articles - Database Searching

What is a Database?
Example – Search pentecostal* in Academic Search Complete, in ATLA and in Gender Studies Database

Formatting citations in databases
Some database providers, such as EBSCO and ProQuest, allow you to format references using a particular style (ex. APA, Chicago, MLA, etc.), and email or print these formatted references.

Note: Always review the citations formatted by the database. Compare results with style guidelines listed on this guide for the exact formatting and punctuation.
