Ice-breaker activity

- | | |
|--|----------------------|
| 1. I use or have used library services. | 1. Move your fingers |
| 2. I know how to evaluate a source (is it reliable, of good quality?). | 2. Touch your head |
| 3. When I search for articles, I often find what I'm looking for. | 3. Play air piano |
| 4. I prefer to use Google / Scholar to find scholarly articles. | 4. Wave |
| 5. I have attended a library workshop before. | 5. Take a bow |
| 6. I've met with a librarian to find relevant sources for an assignment. | 6. Clap your hands |

This activity was created by K-Lee Fraser, University of Toronto Scarborough, K-Lee's Remixed Information Literacy Games. (unpublished)

Other Search operators

Exact phrase searching

Quotation marks (" ") are used to search for an expression in its exact form (phrase searching). They are useful for expressions containing more than one word. For example, "rite of passage" or "modern Judaism" will find these words written together, without their variants, in that order.

Truncation

The asterisk (), placed at the end of a word, replaces 0, 1 or more characters. For example, chat will find chat, chats, chatte, chaton, but also château, Chateaubriand, Châtelaine... It will not, however, find matou, félin, or lynx. Another example: relig*: relig*ion*, relig*ions*, religare, relig*ious*, relig*ieux*, relig*ieuse*.

Article abstract

This essay places the literary representations of Canadian queer Jews from the former Soviet Union, such as in David Bezmozgis's short story "Minyan," in a larger context of Canadian queer Jewish writing that addresses the themes of immigration or migration, such as Brian Stein's short story "The Good Son" and K. David Brody's novel Mourning and Celebration. This article thus discusses three works where immigration/migration reflects a recouping of traditional symbols of Jewish life in the contexts of Canadian Judaism, Jewish community, and gay male sexuality. The article pursues answers to the following questions: How does the experience of immigration to Canada or migration within Canada influence one's sense of cultural loss and strategies of reclamation? How are these representations of queer Jewish life shaped by and contribute to the diversity and multiculturalism of Canadian society?
