

PARENTAL LEAVE SUPPLEMENT AWARD FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS

The Parental-Leave Supplement Award will provide financial support to international graduate students who become parents and allow them some breathing-room without the added stress of thinking they may not have the financial means to interrupt or complete their studies.

ELIGIBILITY

- Graduate international students must be granted an approved parental leave of absence.
- Applicants must have completed at least one term of full-time studies in their current program.
- Applicants must be a recipient of an internal award (donor award, department/faculty specific award, graduate award from University funds, and research bursary).

VALUE

Recipients will receive a 55% supplement of their current internal funding, to a maximum of $5,000 CAD.

SELECTION

In the event of the birth or adoption of a child, and once the parental leave is approved by the School of Graduate Studies through a service request. The School of Graduate Studies will determine the value of the award, based upon an application from the student, and then disburse the Parental Leave Supplement Award to the student's account. To be awarded on a first-come, first served basis.
